

Executive Summary

AP-05 Executive Summary - 91.200(c), 91.220(b)

1. Introduction

The City of Taylor is an entitlement community to the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program. This program is administered by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). The city receives this funding to address the needs of low- to moderate-income persons in our community including the removal of slum and blight and to provide for affordable housing opportunities. Persons benefiting from the activities of these programs must meet the income guidelines as determined by HUD for their household showing that they qualify as low- to moderate-income. To receive annual CDBG entitlement allocations, eligible communities must submit a Five-Year Consolidated Plan and an Annual Action Plan each year throughout the five-year term. The City of Taylor has prepared a Five-Year Consolidated Plan for Program Years (PY) 2021-2025 that identifies priority needs, strategies to meet those needs, and objectives to be addressed during those five years. The Consolidated Plan also identifies resources available to assist in meeting those needs.

The City of Taylor's Action Plan is submitted to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) on an annual basis for participation in the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program. The Plan describes the anticipated activities and expenditures for the ensuing fiscal year, and how these activities relate to meeting objectives as stated in the Five-Year Consolidated Plan. The Five-Year Action Plan serves as a budget for expenditures for the 2022-2023 Program Year.

This Annual Action Plan outlines the use of CDBG funds for PY 2022-2023, in accordance with 24 CFR Part 91.220 of Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, and as approved by the City of Taylor Council. It also demonstrates the linkage between how funds will be used to meet the objectives and address the needs that are identified in the Consolidated Plan. The PY 2021-2025 Action Plan represents the second year of the Consolidated Plan. This Action Plan sets general guidelines for housing and community development activities for the next program year, beginning July 1, 2022, through June 30, 2023. The policies and priorities of the Action Plan are drawn from an analysis of housing, community development, and service needs within the City.

The mission of Taylor's CDBG program is to build a viable community, provide structurally sound, affordable housing and economic opportunities for the community, principally focusing on how to assist the low to moderate income persons. Taylor has gone through several changes in City Administration and Personnel over the last couple of years, but continues to successfully achieve this mission, by supporting projects and programs that improve the recreational facilities of the city, rehabilitate housing and providing public services to the community. Taylor has a proven system of departments and non-profits requesting allocations, which identifies the needs they are addressing and the outcome that will be achieved. In addition, Taylor has an established system of documentation and controls that ensure compliance with HUD regulations and guidelines.

Table 7 – Project Information

Describe the reasons for allocation priorities and any obstacles to addressing underserved needs

The primary obstacles to meeting the underserved needs of low and moderate-income people include lack of funding from federal, state and other local sources, the high cost of housing that is not affordable to low-income people and the lack of availability of home improvement financing in the private lending industry. To address these obstacles, the City is investing CDBG funds through the 2021-2025 Action Plan in projects that provide grants to low- and moderate-income homeowners for home improvements and projects that provide public and neighborhood services to low- and moderate-income people.

The City is allocating 100 percent of its CDBG funds for program year 2022-2023 to projects and activities that benefit low- and moderate-income people. Due to the nature of the projects and activities to be undertaken, investments in projects concerning Neighborhood Services and Public Facilities and Infrastructure Improvements are limited to the low-and moderate-income Areas while other projects and activities benefit low- and moderate-income limited clientele and are available

AP-50 Geographic Distribution - 91.420, 91.220(f)

Description of the geographic areas of the entitlement (including areas of low-income and minority concentration) where assistance will be directed

The City of Taylor is located within Wayne County. Approximately 64,000 residents reside in the City of Taylor according to U.S. Census data 2010. The median household income is $41,660 and percentage of persons below poverty level is 16.6% which is higher percentage than the State of Michigan percentage of 13.00%. The City of Taylor will allocate all funding to low- and moderate-income residents, special needs individuals and low- and moderate-income areas of the City to the extent possible. Additionally, Taylor will evaluate non-profit agencies on their ability to diversify their funding sources. The purpose of CDBG dollars is to supplement on-going efforts by agencies, rather than to provide the sole source of funds.

Activities planned for the 2022-2023 Program Year are all focused within low- and moderate-income areas or are on a community-wide basis and are public services that are directed at a number of low income and special needs residents.

The City of Taylor will continue to focus its efforts and programming in the CDBG eligible areas of the City. These areas are defined as having 51% of the block group residents with incomes below 80% of the median income for the Detroit-Warren-Livonia Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA).

AP-75 Barriers to affordable housing -91.420, 91.220(j)

Introduction

One of the strongest needs to housing is ability for Low-income individuals and families to purchase a home for the first time. The city recognized that need and is working with organizations and private developers to address such need.

Actions it planned to remove or ameliorate the negative effects of public policies that serve as barriers to affordable housing such as land use controls, tax policies affecting land, zoning ordinances, building codes, fees and charges, growth limitations, and policies affecting the return on residential investment

The City has the infrastructure in place with the number of nonprofit organizations and government agencies that can meet the need of residents of Taylor but the dollars to fund all these programs is not there. Most of the federal dollars are going to City projects, which will provide a greater overall benefit to the community and help the city maintain some level of quality of life for our residents. These include demolition of blighting properties that negatively affect the neighborhood, around them and improving local neighborhood City parks. Efforts will be made to submit grant applications to Federal, state, and local agencies. Specific grant applications could include economic development grants, demolition of City owned commercial structures, infrastructure improvements, and neighborhood revitalization.

The city has formed strong partnerships with service providers that assist low- and moderate-income residents, seniors, and those with special needs. The city plans to continue supporting these agencies with both funding and administrative assistance as deemed appropriate.

One obstacle to meeting underserved needs is a lack of resources. The City plans to review alternative sources of funds to help address the needs of City residents.

The city has identified, throughout the Action Plan, several strategies that will be used to address obstacles and activities to meeting underserved needs in the community. To that end, the city will continue to narrow the gap in services provided to citizens with special needs.

The city through its public outreach to the community, private and public developers recognize the need to increase affordable housing to low-income individuals and families. The City currently purchases first right of refusal houses that were foreclosed by the Treasurer's office for nonpayment of taxes and does offer the homeowners an opportunity to redeem the houses and if homeowners can't afford to purchase the houses, then the houses are rehabbed by a private developer and offered as a rental property for the previous homeowners. This helps the city increase its tax base and helps the homeowners to retain their homes and gives business to private developers to grow and become a partner with the City.

Another barrier to affordable housing is that low-income individuals are unable to own houses due to cost and financing capabilities. The city works with National Faith and organization that assists individuals and families in training them to become homeowners. National faith offers classes to repair credit and how to be a homeowner. The organization also assists in helping with financing. Once the individual and family finish the course then they can get the financing needed to purchase the house. The City through its HOME funds offer down payment assistance to help with the closing costs. The down payment amount was increased from $5000 to $7500. The city will continue to listen to the needs of the community and develop programs that will assist in breaking down the barriers to affordable housing.

Discussion

AP-85 Other Actions - 91.420, 91.220(k)

Introduction

Actions planned to address obstacles to meeting underserved needs

One obstacle to meeting underserved needs is a lack of resources. The City plans to review alternative sources of funds to help address the needs of City residents.

The City has the infrastructure in place with the number of nonprofit organizations and government agencies that can meet the need of residents of Taylor but the dollars to fund all these programs are not there. Most of the federal dollars are going to City projects which will provide a greater overall benefit to the community and help the city maintain some level of quality of life for our residents. These include and improving local neighborhood streets and improvements to City parks. Efforts will be made to submit grant applications to Federal, state, and local agencies. Specific grant applications could include State of Michigan DNR grants, infrastructure improvements, and neighborhood revitalization. The city has formed strong partnerships with service providers that assist low- and moderate-income residents, seniors, and those with special needs. The city plans to continue supporting these agencies with both funding and administrative assistance as deemed appropriate.

The city has identified, throughout the Action Plan, several strategies that will be used to address obstacles and activities to meeting underserved needs in the community. To that end, the city will continue to narrow the gap in services provided to citizens with special needs.

Actions planned to foster and maintain affordable housing

The City of Taylor has planned housing activities for the 2022-2023 program year and has allocated $27,791 of 2022-2023 CDBG funds specifically to housing along with $40,000 of program income for the rehabilitation of additional 8 house. It is a priority of the city to aid owner-occupied households with 30% to 80% Median Family Income (MFI). Additionally, the city is committed to fair housing and ensuring that people of all incomes, religions and ethnicities can live in a decent, safe and healthy environment.

Homeowner Activities

The Homeowner Repair Program is designed to provide non-substantial housing repairs including emergency and other repairs of homes owned by lower to moderate income residents. In general, the program allows improvements to a home to bring it to minimum code standards, correct barriers to mobility and health and to address safety hazards and energy improvements. The most common non-substantial repairs include roofs, electrical, plumbing and furnaces. Other repairs are allowed under the program, but remodeling is not covered, nor is substantial reconstruction.

Actions planned to reduce lead-based paint hazards

Many houses and apartments built before 1978 have paint that contains high levels of lead (called lead-based paint). Lead from paint, chips and dust can pose serious health hazards if not taken care of properly. The City of Taylor takes an active role in the prevention of childhood lead poisoning through housing-based approaches. As the City's housing stock is aging the Housing Rehabilitation Program administered through the Community and Economic Development Department is becoming more important.

A rental housing inspection program was established in Taylor in 1999. It ensures that rental properties are compliant with current codes and ordinances prior to occupancy. Originally, these programs focused on the quality and safety of building interiors, but over time and as compliance with local codes has improved, the focus is shifting toward exterior concerns including the conditions of driveways, parking and landscaping. The owner-occupied single-family homes throughout the city are in large part built prior to 1978. The city works to alleviate lead hazards on a case-by-case basis through the Home Repair Program. All Home Repair projects on homes built prior to 1978 are lead tested and abated.

The City has and will contract with environmental services firms that provide lead testing to evaluate every home being considered for home repairs. Several contractors on the City's home repair bid list have taken advantage of training to become certified lead paint contractors.

The city will continue to encourage appropriate staff and participating contractors to attend training and obtain certification in "Lead-Based Paint Safe Work Practices" for City construction and rehabilitation projects.

Actions planned to reduce the number of poverty-level families

According to the City Data, in 2019 residents with income below the poverty level for in the City of Taylor is 16.6% which is a approve the State of Michigan poverty level of 13%. Servicing poverty-stricken people is still a high priority for the city through the CDBG Program.

Many of the City of Taylor programs are designed to reduce the number of poverty level households within the City through the provision of human services, the creation of economic opportunities and the improvement of physical conditions in low-income areas. The City of Taylor believes that poverty can be alleviated by improving the conditions in which people live and by simultaneously providing them with job training and education.

A key element of the anti-poverty strategy is the community's successful coordination with human service providers for the homeless and other special needs. Several services are available to assist homeless, near homeless and special needs individuals and families. Better coordination of these services is vital to providing a seamless continuum of care to assist these individuals on the road to self-sufficiency.

Reducing poverty and assisting lower income families is an ongoing concern and can only be accomplished through broad based programs. Over a few years, the City of Taylor has worked to build relationships with nonprofit agencies and other public sector offices with the goal of serving the low-income population of the city. The city will continue to work closely with Taylor families to improve family self-sufficiency and provide a safety net. Staff will work with agencies such as Fish & Loaves and Senior Alliance that provide free and low-cost food for low-income families and seniors.

Working relationships have been established with local churches and with local businesses to ensure a safety net for residents in need.

The city will seek to achieve its goal of reducing the number of families that are below the poverty line. The Community Development Department will work with area agencies to ensure that programs and policies are in place to assist in achieving this goal. Together, these efforts will enable a low-income family the opportunity to access needed assistance to improve their economic and emotional

Actions planned to develop institutional structure

The city has a strong institutional structure in place necessary to carry out its housing and community development strategies. The Community Development Department will administer the CDBG, and NSP Programs. The Community Development Department is also very involved in the administration of our subrecipient agreements and has a good working relationship with our nonprofit service providers. Prior to receiving funding from the city, each organization must attend a training session and the city is very clear on the responsibilities of the administration of the grant. Staff will assist these organizations to help ensure that the grant is properly executed, and the program reaches the intended beneficiaries.

In conjunction with other City operating departments, the Community Development Department will also implement any public works projects proposed by the 5-Year Consolidated Plan or any of the annual Action Plans.

In conjunction with the policy of the City of Taylor, all housing and community development programs will include an extensive, year-end performance review and audit. This review will help determine, based upon goals and objectives stated at program initiation, the success of the program.
